April 2024

Dear Students and Parents/Carers,

The biology department has been invited to take 15 students to a Biomedicine Masterclass at Lancaster University on Monday 17th June. This is a free event.

Aimed at students interested in studying human life processes in the context of health and disease, the Biomedicine Masterclasses are a fantastic opportunity to discover university by participating in taster lectures, getting hands-on in the lab and also taking a look around our campus and facilities.

During the event, students will have the opportunity to:

- Experience a university-style lecture in a lecture theatre, introducing the topic
- Put their learning into practice and develop new skills in a laboratory session
- Tour key locations around the University campus, including the library and accommodation
- Speak with the University's researchers and current students
- Learn more about how to apply to university

LRGS has managed to secure 15 places. In order to be eligible, students must be studying Biology and another science subject (Chemistry, Physics or Maths) and capable of achieving BBB at A-level.

You will also have to make your own way to and from the University. There is no cost for the masterclass.

If you are interested in attending, please e-mail knewton@lrgs.org.uk Places will be allocated on a first-come-first-served basis, although priority will be given to students who are thinking about applying to study biomedicine at university.

Deadline for applications is Friday 10th May.

If you have any questions, please contact the biology department.

Kind regards,

Mrs. K Newton
