The school has had many sporting achievements this year in athletics, swimming, rowing and much more.

In athletics, the school came first in the district for year 7, 8 and 9 and first in the county for year 7. Alasdair Jackman is year 7 champion for district at 100m with a time of 12.7 seconds which he achieved at the district competition that took place at Salt Ayre.

In rowing, the school has done extremely well and has really represented the school with style. They have done superbly in all of the regattas that they have participated in and they have really shown how well they can row together and represent the school.

In swimming, the school has held and participated in many competitions. The swimming events have all been a great success and during the inter-form swimming galas the races have been very close.

Well done to all of the participants in various sports this year. They have all been a great success!

A new part of the LRGS News will be the teacher interview.

This week the teacher we will be interviewing is Dr C Pyle.

Dr Pyle has told us lots of great facts about the success of the school this year. He has told us that he feels that one of the greatest achievements of the school this year has been the incredible amount of money raised for the school's chosen Lenten charities. He also praised the way that the school has coped with the extremely sad passing of Recce Holt and the the incredible amount of money raised for Team Recce. Dr Pyle has also told us that he feels that the Green Team have made a fantastic addition to the school and are excellent role models to younger pupils. Dr Pyle also has said that he thinks the renovation works that have taken place in Old School House have been excellent and a superb addition to the school. Dr Pyle has felt like the best part of his school year has been the idea of inviting girls into the sixth form going from a thought to a reality. Dr Pyle has also said that the biggest change to the school next year will be the new availability of the sixth form study space and the addition of girls into the sixth form. Dr Pyle has said that his proudest moments recently have been the way in which the school has handled the sad passing of Recce Holt as well as the success of Scott Durrant who received an Olympic gold medal in the 2016 Olympic games. Dr Pyle has this advice to all the pupils in the school for next year: Work Hard and Be Nice.

The background of the slide is a vibrant sunset or sunrise over a body of water. The sky is filled with warm, glowing colors of orange, yellow, and red, transitioning into a deep blue at the top. A large, soft, white and pinkish cloud is visible in the lower left and center of the frame, partially obscuring the water. The water reflects the colors of the sky, creating a shimmering effect.

READING THIS YEAR...

So, what has happened in the world of reading this year at LRGS? The year 7s started the year with an introduction to the LRGS Accelerated Reader scheme (AR). This is a motivating programme which encourages and rewards reading with grades and quizzes to chart progress. Not only are we able to see how many words we have read, but also our accuracy in quizzes about our reads. We are rewarded with bookmarks, pencils and credits to the bookworm badges. More of that later! As well as the AR scheme, we have had the opportunity to participate in a number of reading challenges, which have allowed us to explore, discover and talk about a different variety of genres from what we may normally chose to read. I particularly enjoyed the Costa Reading Challenge and the chance to meet with different year groups, staff and parents to talk about the books and vote on our favourites. I've also enjoyed books from the Young Quills challenge, where we were encouraged to read books with historical backgrounds and settings. More recently I have widened my reading further with the Carnegie reading challenge and, again enjoyed reading books outside my normal area of interest. New to the school this year are the bookworm badges, which reward all aspects of achievement in the literary world at LRGS. So, enjoy reading and wear your bookworm badges with pride!
