Residual area detail

Limits of the residual area are determined by the feasibility of daily travel. Day places are not offered to those living beyond: Arnside to the northwest, Milnthorpe to the north, Leck to the northeast, to Grimsargh to the southeast, the River Ribble through Preston to the south, and the River Wyre to the southwest.

In more detail, the boundary of the residual area is as follows. To the northwest from the priority catchment area at Silverdale, the residual boundary follows the coast to Arnside, then the B5282 to Milnthorpe, then northeast on the B6385 to the A65, then southeast on the A65 to the priority catchment area at Leck. From the priority catchment area at Dolphinholme, the residual boundary runs south to Oakenclough, south to Whitechapel, south to Goosnargh, and southeast to Grimsargh. The residual area boundary then follows the B6243 to the M6, and then runs south along the M6 to the River Ribble, and follows the River Ribble west through Preston to New Lea Hall. From New Lea Hall it follows the A583 to the junction of the A585, then north along the A585 to the River Wyre at Little Singleton. The boundary then follows the east bank of the River Wyre to Knott End, and finally follows the coast to the priority catchment area.
